

Jacek Woroniecki Memorial Lectures 2012/2013

Prof. RAYMOND DENNEHY*

“The illusion of the distinction between sex and gender: a Thomistic reply to the gender feminists”

KUL, May 2013

(30 hours course in a week-time, 2 ECTS points)

*Raymond Dennehy is Professor of Philosophy at the University of San Francisco where he teaches metaphysics, theory of knowledge, and social ethics. After serving in the U.S. Navy aboard the heavy cruiser, USS Rochester (CA 124) as a radarman, principally in the South China Sea, from 1954-58, he attended the University of San Francisco, obtaining a B.A. in philosophy in 1962; he did graduate study in philosophy at the University of California, Berkeley, 1962-64, before entering the graduate philosophy program at the University of Toronto, getting a Ph.D. in philosophy from that school in 1973. Dennehy is frequently called upon to address contemporary ethical issues by universities and the media. He has published: Reason and Dignity, Anti-Abortionist at Large, and Soldier Boy: the War Between Michael and Lucifer and is the editor of a book of essays, entitled Christian Married Love. He is married to Maryann Dennehy and has four children and eleven grandchildren.

This lecture will include topics, such as the relation between nature and gender, thought, thing, and symbol, male and female.
