

Authors: Zbigniew Barciński

Title: The thematic issue of “Tygodnik Powszechny” as a source of information on gender

Source: Biuletyn Edukacji Medialnej

Year: 2015, number: 1(2015), pages: 108-123.

Keywords: gender, manipulation, Tygodnik Powszechny

Discipline: MEDIA & COMMUNICATION

Language: ENGLISH

Document type: ARTICLE

Publication order reference (First author’s office address): mgr lic. Zbigniew Barciński, Katolicki Uniwersytet Lubelski Jana Pawła II, Wydział Teologii, Al. Raławickie 14, 20-950 Lublin, Poland

Abstract: The article is a response to the question whether gender image contained in the thematic issue of “Tygodnik Powszechny” [TP] entitled “Gender: fakty i mity” [Gender: Facts and Myths] is reliable. The text’s author reconstructs the gender image of TP on the basis of the analysis of the four statements: the article “Gender w Dolinie Kościeliskiej” [Gender in the Kościeliska Valley] by Rev. Adam Boniecki and the article “Być kobietą, być mężczyzną” [Being a woman, being a man] by Rev. Jacek Prusak, the editorial discussion “Gender: Rozmawiajmy serio” [Gender: Let’s talk seriously] conducted by Artur Sporniak with Małgorzata Fuszara, Magdalena Gawin and Zuzanna Radzik, and the breakdown of the selected social events held in November and December 2013, entitled “Polskie awantury o gender” [Polish fuss about gender]. The analysis leads to the conclusion that the thematic issue of TP is not a reliable representation of gender. It does not depict gender impartially and objectively, but it is involved in its defence to the extent that it contains untrue information, manipulation and significant concealments.