

PROF. JACOPO SATURNO

is a researcher in Slavic linguistics at the University of Verona, Italy. His academic interests include second language acquisition, particularly of Polish, with a focus on nominal morphology and the role of input. He is also engaged in Slavic and Romance intercomprehension, paying special attention to its applications in teaching Polish as a foreign language to students who already know other Slavic languages, most commonly Russian.

COURSE LEADER:

PROF. JACOPO SATURNO

UNIVERSITY OF VERONA,
ITALY

COURSE NAME:

INTRODUCTION
TO INTERCOMPREHENSION
AMONG SLAVIC LANGUAGES

DATES:

21ST JANUARY 2026

(ONLINE)

FROM 9.10 TO 10.50

28TH JANUARY 2026

(ONLINE)

FROM 9.10 TO 10.50

The course is intended for PhD students and anyone interested