Abstract: The mission of the Church consists not only in the transfer to the people the evangelical message of Christ, but also on the improvement with the evangelical spirit of the entire order of worldly matters and the proper reading and understanding of the signs of time. This saturate with the spirit of the Gospel in all events and fields of reality which constitute the proper specificity of the apostleship. Christians must become for the world readable signs of God's kingdom. In this article, one can make an attempt of the indications of pedagogic-catechistic aspects of the perception and the proper understanding undertaken by Christians of the signs of time in the modern world. Christians realized through this task consecratio mundi and thanks to this, can go ahead hopefully. These was shown by the realization of the fact that Christian did not escape, but lives in the modern world for which they try to witness the kingdom of God and showed to the world the way of the Gospel.
